A Letter from the Hot Springs. [Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] Hor Springs, Ark., March 24.—Leaving Surprise at its wonderful power. During a practice of twenty years I have never known a medicine to act as promptly and with such happy effects. It instantly subdued the most violen lits of coughing, and invariably cured the disease in a few days. I cheerfully endorse it as the best lung medicine I ever used. ern Florida, Southern Georgia, and the central portion of Alabama to Montgomery, there) via: Mobile to New Orlears. Along the border of Alabama and Louisiana the railroad is built for many miles on trestle work through dense swamps, afforcing travellers a beau iful and extensive view of the Gulf of Mexico. Arriving in New Orleans on a dismal, rainy day, ob-servation of the Crescont City was limited to a fow of its main business streets and its grand levee. Among its prominent buildings is the St. Charles Hotel, situated on the stree; of the same name, and is said to be the ficest in the South; also the Custom House, Louisi na State Lottery building, and numerous large and commodious stores and warehouses, show that the business interest of the city is built on a firm foundation. Considering the great disadvantages the rices has labored under in years past; its recuperation is certainly remarkable which proves that the city is prculiarly located for trade, and stands at the head of the list of commercial ports, without a rival. The teme along the Levee is one not easily forgotten; thousands of bales of cotten and countless tons of merchaudise are piled awaiting shipment, or being hauled to its destination; masses of human beings are moving to and fre, and theu sands of laborers are actively employed loading and unloading the great number of steamers and vessels moored to its banks. Taking pasrage some evening on the new and elegantly giving one a fine opportunity to view the varions sugar plantations and factories of Louisiana and the cuton fields of Mississippi and Atkansas. At one of the priceigal landings, having a large consignment of cotton seed, 3,000 sacks to put on beard, which would consume an hour, I took advantage of the delay, and, in company with one of the officers, tack a stroll through the plantation as far as the "Cotton Gio," and lo ! and behold the first object that met cur view was "John

Chinaman' gioning cotton, and from the man-ner in which it was haudled they appeared well fitted for that kied of labor. In conversation with several l'ianters, en gaged in sugar and cotton raising, they said I this exodus continued the planters along the Mississippi intended to introduc: Chinese labor on a large scale; in fact, several parties were already to communication and negotiating for a large number of these coolies. If this scheme is fully estried out by the landowners of the sugar and enten districts it will be, without doubt, the worst mislortupe that e uld belall the Seuthero pegre, as they were well poid and contracted until political demogagues approaced among them to enties them away from their supry homes. The river was very high, and fears were enter sixed of a general overflow; at some of the landings the levees had given way, and enton and provisions were transported seress plantations in fluboats. After a del ght ful trip of six days, the "fever stricken" city of Mamphis was receied, and is vacant stores and deserted dwellings, still bear marks of the plague. Along the principal streets acd river front business was very active, but rothing in comparison with former years. Mem phis, situated as she is on a high and command ing bluff, with a rich and growing country all around her, will scon regain her former prosperity, and soon surpass it, if the germs of yellow fever are ever thoroughly eradicated from her midet. Precuring tickets for Hot Springs, we were soon whirling over the Memphis and Little Rock Railread through forty miles of water, the whole country sceming to be inundated nearly as far as Little Rockchanged ours for Malvern, and at Malvern for Hot Springs via Hot Springs Narrow Guage, or "Diamond Jo's" road as it is familiarly called. This road is owned and controled by Mr. Jeseph Reynolds of Chicago, batter known as Diamond Jo's, and built at a cost of four hundred thousand dollars. The "parrow guage," has been in operation three years and previous to its construction visitors had to 'stage' it over a rough and mountainous road for a distance of twenty miles. The town of Hot Springs in situated in the valley of the same name; is mostly located on one street, which is about a mile long, following the creek, which is spanned by foot bridges at convenient distances. Since the decision of the ownership of these Springs, by the Supreme Court in favor of the Government, improvements have made rapid strides; new hotels, large boarding houses, stores and excellent bathing houses have been lately erected, and particularly the bath houses will compare favorably with any similar institutions of the kind in the country. These springs issue forth from the western slope of the Heat Giving mountain [a spur of the Ozerk mountain] at an elevation of 1400 feet above the level of the sea. The waters from the spring flow into a beautiful mountain stream, twenty to thirty feet wide, and cause a slight vapor to rise from its surface. In the hottest springs an egg can be cocked in fifteen minutes. The hot water is conveyed through iron pipes to the bathing houses in the valley below. The wonderful cures performed by the use of these thermal waters are almost inoredible, yet the number of persons who have been greatly berefitted, or cured go into thou sande, and can be found in every town, city and hamlet in the United States. These waters are streets without crutch or stick, as if they had never been s fil oted. Yet, there are diseases these waters are said to be very injurious to, such as consumption and heart disease. Washburne, of Illiacis, is here and Grant and party are looked for the early part of April, though ru-mor has it to day that the steamship he sailed in from Mexico for Galveston has been lost.
